Irish-born German-based filmmaker David O'Reilly won the 2009 Cartoon d'Or Award for his contemporary short film "Please Say Something". The Award Ceremony took place in Stavanger, Norway, during the Cartoon Forum.

The annual Cartoon Forum is a co-production conflag for animated television series professionals from all over Europe. The purpose of the Cartoon Forum is to foster co-productions and accelerate financial arrangements. The Cartoon Forum allows co-productions to be finalised, pre-buys agreed, negotiation of distribution agreements, options discussed on every type of right, and licensing of secondary rights.

The assembled professionals vote at the Forum to recognise their peers' contribution to European animation over the past year. The winners were NRK (Norway), Cake Entertainment (UK) and Brown Bag Films (Ireland), respectively Broadcaster, Investor/Distributor and Producer of the year. Cartoon Forum also announced that next year's event will take place in Sopron, Hungary
